

Kids with character

*Akron

Hospital*

RayVeen Wilson, who recently completed the fifth grade at Hotchkiss Elementary School, has displayed true citizenship during the past school year. During the 2004-2005 school year, RayVeen experienced some personal difficulties and was not involved in any school activities. She started the 2005-2006 school year with a great attitude and was determined to become more involved in her education. RayVeen is now a lunchroom monitor for a kindergarten class and a patrol guard at school. She also plays the violin, runs track, and maintains high grades.

Thank you RayVeen, for being a good role model to other students and for demonstrating citizenship through your actions.

RayVeen
