

Kids with character

Akron
Children's Hospital

Rai'yana Wray-Johnson, who recently completed the third grade at the Academy at Robinson in Akron, displays the character pillar of responsibility. Rai'yana always strives to do her best in the classroom. This past school year, she helped in the special education classroom at school. Not only did she set a fine example for her peers academically, she also tried to make them understand that learning can be fun! Rai'yana is a very caring student who reaches out to help others in need. She wants others to experience happiness and success.

Thank you Rai'yana for being such a responsible citizen.
